Internet Tip

Keystroke logging (often called keylogging) is the action of tracking (or logging) the keystrokes on a keyboard, typically in a covert manner so that the person using the keyboard is unaware that their actions are being monitored. Keylogging can track credit cards, social security numbers, usernames & passwords. This may compromise the security of your computer. If your anti-virus software alerts you about this kind of activity, have your machine cleaned immediately.

Security Tip

If you use networking sites, such as Facebook or Twitter, be reluctant to share information about upcoming vacations or trips as it is an advertisement that your residence will be unattended. Click here for more information.
